Parente's Gray & Newman Present at AICPA National Conference on Fraud & Litigation Services

PHILADELPHIA, PA – OCTOBER 5, 2007 – Robert Gray, a Principal in the Forensic & Litigation Services Group of Parente Randolph, co-chaired the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) National Conference on Fraud & Litigation Services held in San Diego on September 27-28.

Glenn Newman, Principal In Charge of Parente's Forensic & Litigation Services Group, served with Gray on the conference committee and also presented before participants on the topic of Intellectual Property Damages.

The highly-attended conference covered emerging fraud topics including hedge funds, money laundering, computer crimes and advanced interviewing. In addition, the litigation topics provided a mock trial through verdict including cross-examination and a snap shot into the minds of the jury. In addition, Gray and Newman were responsible for the outreach to the American Bar Association this year. One of the keynote speakers at the conference was Gary Collins, Director of Compliance for GE Energy Financial Services. Gary is the co-chair of the ABA's white collar crime committee and spoke on the future outlook of forensic accounting and how the ABA committees can best work with experts in their local communities. Joseph L. Ford, Associate Deputy Director of the FBI provided the keynote address and addressed the Bureau's white-collar crime initiatives.
